Man Accused of Killing Lawyer Receives a New Attorney

By Scott Stawick
SEN Staff Writer

Charged in the murder of his former attorney, Miguel Trujillo has been appointed another attorney from the public defender's office.

Jilly Reed, from the Public Defender's Department in Albuquerque, had no comment, saying that she had just been given the case with no time to review it.

Trujillo had recently rejected his previous court-appointed attorney of six months, Marc Rubin.

An attorney from out of station was hired because most of the attorneys working for the Public Defender's Department are from Taos or Sandoval County. If the man Trujillo is accused of murdering in a drive-by shooting.

Vigil was murdered Aug. 13, 1999 a few blocks from his South Street office while walking to District Court for a hearing.

A five-green, early model Ford pickup was spotted in the area during Trujillo's hearing.

Assistant District Attorney Richard Salazar told the crowd was waiting for an attorney to represent Trujillo to be found in schedule for next hearing.

All First District Court judges were disqualified from the hearings, with Judge Stephen Thibodeau excused. The Supreme Court appointed Second District Court Judge Neil Camacho from Albuquerque to oversee the hearings.

Trujillo is accused of an open charge of murder, two counts of carrying a weapon or weapons, one charge of tampering with evidence, and one charge of being a felon in possession of a firearm. Trujillo did not testify. He has up to 90 years in prison.

Miracle cure kills fifth patient

By The Associated Press

A fifth volunteer died Tuesday from an experimental drug touted as a miracle cure for hepatitis B, beyond medical reason even as scientists unraveled the mystery of what went gravely wrong in a clinical trial.

Aggravatingly, the first clue was in plain sight a year ago, but somewhere at the National Institute of Health, didn't know enough about how the drug worked to recognize what it meant, the study's lead scientist says.

"Something terrible happened and we missed it," Dr. Jay Hoofnagle said in an emotional interview describing the horror of realizing the drug was killing people months after they stopped taking it.

"The dreadful thing [is] waiting to see what will happen," he said, his voice trembling, before leaving of the most recent death. "I just hope we're over the worst."

The drug, Fialuridine, or FIAU, had shown great promise for fighting the hepatitis B virus, which can cause deadly cirrhosis and liver cancer. When dogs passed toxicity tests unharmed, the Food and Drug Administration approved FIAU for human trials.

Too late, scientists would discover that in humans, FIAU steadily attacks the very building blocks of cells in livers, kidneys and nerves.

Five people treated with FIAU have died of liver and kidney failure, despite liver transplants for three of them. On Tuesday, a 37-year-old woman succumbed after two months in critical condition and two liver transplants at the University of Virginia Medical Center. One volunteer remains in serious condition there, and another is recovering from an Aug. 4 transplant at Emory University Hospital in Atlanta.
